SOMEONE TO WATCH: Ramin Bahrani and Gerardo Naranjo

Since 2003, the CIFF has selected filmmakers whose careers are on the rise and whose work deserves extra attention. This year we focused on two outstanding filmmakers.

Ramin Bahrani has set his three feature films within two places of personal import: Winston-Salem, North Carolina, where he was born of Iranian parents, and New York City, where he received his BA in Film from Columbia University. Bahrani also studied film abroad in Iran and France. His first film, "Man Push Cart," premiered at the Venice Film Festival and earned praise around the world. Following Bahrani's second film, "Chop Shop," he received the "Someone to Watch" Independent Spirit Award in 2008. His third and most recent film, "Goodbye Solo," won the international film critics' FIPRESCI award for best film at the Venice Film Festival.

Gerardo Naranjo, born in the small town of Salamanca, concentrated on studying film, especially the work of Jean-Luc Godard and the French New Wave. After years of schooling himself and his friends, he began his formal education at the Universidad Iberoamericana in Mexico City. He later moved to Los Angeles to earn his MFA at the American Film Institute. In 2004, he released his first feature film "Malachance." Two years later he wrote and directed "Drama/Mex," which garnered international acclaim. Naranjo's most recent film, "I'm Gonna Explode," is lauded as an integral player in the rebirth of Mexican cinema.

OPENING NIGHT – SPONSORED BY DOLLAR BANK

"Lightbulb" was screened for 1,100 patrons as part of the Opening Night festivities, followed by the Opening Night Gala at the M.K. Ferguson Plaza located in Tower City Center. Special guests, Mike Cram, Greg Goodell and Dallas Roberts were in attendance at the gala.

CLOSING NIGHT

"The Brothers Bloom" was spotlighted as the Closing Night film at the 33rd CIFF, with 1,955 people in attendance for the last round of films. Patrons then enjoyed the Closing Night party around the fountain at Tower City Center.

EDUCATIONAL PROGRAMS

The Cleveland International Film Festival is committed to using film as an impetus for educating people on issues faced around our world today. The educational programs of the CIFF include: Cultural Journeys, FilmForums (including "Lights! Camera! Action Steps!"), and FilmSlam.

CULTURAL JOURNEYS

Cultural Journeys (sponsored by Cleveland State University) offers unparalleled opportunities to learn about different countries, societies, languages, issues, and points of view through film. This year, Cultural Journeys emphasized the culture of the Middle East and Arabic World. There were thirteen films to choose from: Garbage Dreams, Lemon Tree, Loose Rope, The Market-A Tale of Trade, Melodrama Habibi, My Marlon and Brando, Ordinary Boys, Ramchand Pakistani, Strangers, Summer Book, Two Ladies, Under the Bombs and Youssou N'Dour.

FILMFORUMS

FilmForums are moderated panel discussions that offer Film Festival audience members the opportunity to learn more about the issues brought up in the film – to ask questions and to share their ideas. FilmForums take place immediately after the conclusion of selected film screenings. Panels include filmmakers, educators, and people who have experienced issues addressed in the films.

This year the CIFF launched "Lights! Camera! Action Steps!" with the help of the Cleveland Colectivo giving circle. CIFF staff and Colectivo volunteers worked with visiting filmmakers and experts to develop "action steps" that audience members could take after the conclusion of FilmForums.

The eleven FilmForum films selected for the 33rd CIFF represented a wide range of issues that affect our world today:

- Ask Not: Does being openly gay in the military endanger our national security? And what drives the "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy?
- At the Edge of the World: How is it possible that we are still trying to save whales from wholesale slaughter 20 years after an international ban on killing them?
- The Garden: Is it possible for the underdog to triumph over big business and big government?
- Generation RX: Are we helping our kids function better in their daily lives with the increased use of "adult" prescription drugs? Or are we medicating them to squelch behaviors that aren't convenient for us?
- The Lovers: Fifty years after this movie became an international scandal and led to a significant U.S. Supreme Court case, do we know pornography when we see it?

- Poly Cultures: Food Where We Live: Could we eat well on food produced only in Northeast Ohio as a means to better sustain the land and protect the environment?
- Prodigal Sons: How do families resolve the inevitable conflicts that evolve through their histories together?
- Prom Night in Mississippi: Does the confluence of Obama's election and the openness of today's youth foretell of a more integrated society?
- Sin by Silence: What leads some victims of domestic abuse from silence to victims?
- Tiny Tears: What is the future for children infected and impacted by HIV/AIDS?
- The Wrecking Crew: For better or worse, what was the impact of the Wrecking Crew on rock 'n roll music?

FILMSLAM

FilmSlam (sponsored by the John S. and James L. Knight Foundation and Cuyahoga Community College, with additional support provided by the Eva L. and Joseph M. Bruening Foundation; the Thomas H. White Foundation, a KeyBank trust; and the Kiwanis Foundation of Cleveland) is a program that gives students from Northeast Ohio high schools the opportunity to see new films by some of the world's most innovative filmmakers, as well as to discuss the films topics and themes with the visiting filmmakers. The eight films chosen for FilmSlam 2009 included: Between the Folds (USA), French Short Films (France, Canada), German Short Films (Germany), Prom Night in Mississippi (Canada, USA), Scenarios USA (USA), Short Subject Program (International), Spanish Short Subjects (Spain, Argentina), and The Way We Get By (USA).
